TENDER $2,500 TO JANSENS

North Shore Electric Company
Offers to Educate Fire
Victim's Children

PUT MONEY IN TRUST FUND

As Yet the Offer of the Company has not Been Accepted—Action
Unprecedented

While the public had heard nothing about it as yet, it develops that the North Shore Electric company, through Vice President F. J. Baker, has made a voluntary tender of $2,500 to the family of J. H. Jansen, the fireman killed recently in the fire of the company's plant on Spring street, Waukegan.

As yet the tender has not been accepted by the family as it is said they are holding out in hopes of getting $3,000.

The offer of the company is not to give $2,500 cash to the family, but to place it in the hands of a trustee or bank and pay over something like $50 or $75 a month to the Jansens to be used in caring for the children and educating them. Added to this amount Mr. Baker says he will put $100 donation which the company at once made when it was suggested, that a memorial of some kind be erected in Mr. Jansen's memory by Waukegan people.

Mr. Baker says the company tendered the $100, does not want to back, and will add it to the $2,500, making a total of $2,600 to the Jansen family.

Speaking of the matter, Mr. Baker said when interviewed—

"Yes, it is true, we have tendered $2,500 to the Jansens, to be used for educating the children. We do not do this because we feel we were in the least liable for the fatality, but through a desire to really help the family which was bereaved through the destruction of our plant.

"We wish to put the fund in such shape as to be used for the education of the children for we feel that it will go a long way toward helping them until they are old enough to help themselves and their mother.

"We planned doing this at once following the accident, but the mother has dragged along as relatives of the victim seem to be dissatisfied with our tender and want more. We feel we are doing more than most concerns would do voluntarily and we are ready to take the steps necessary to put the money into such shape that it can be used at once."

The voluntary action of the company in tendering this money is commendable because the general feeling is that the company was not legally liable under the circumstances.

BEATEN WITH LOGCHAIN

Claiming that Jophet Amstutz, better known as the "Seventeenth Prophet," held his wife in his home and prevented her from leaving, David Warner went to the home of the latter at 1919 Hebron avenue, Zion City, Sunday afternoon and tried to take him to task. The "prophet" resisted the intimations and going into another room secured a heavy log chain with which he proceeded to beat his accuser. A warrant was sworn out for Amstutz's arrest and it was served by Chief of Police Walker.

Amstutz, who is called the "Seventeenth Prophet," is one of the many leaders in Zion who claim a petty following. Next door to his home he has established a home where he allows old people as well as others to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner were up to a few days ago two of the inmates of the house. Warner evidently tired of the life for he left a few days ago, trying to induce his wife to go with him, but for some reason, it is said, she steadfastly refused to do so.

This occasioned his visit Sunday afternoon and the beating which he received was the consequence. It is said that the beating was quite severe, that his head was cut and his shoulders and arms severely bruised.

MAJOR JUDSON CONSENTS

Government Will Permit Waukegan to Locate Fish Hatchery on Harbor Sands

The Waukegan state fish hatchery will be erected on the sands fronting and just south of Madison street and just east of the water works.

In an interview over the long distance from his office in Milwaukee, Major Judson chief of the United States engineering department of the great lakes, declared that he would sign a recommendation that this strip of sand be leased to the city of Waukegan for $1 a year for the use of the fish hatchery.

A reporter obtained the interview with Major Judson just five minutes after Mayor Bullock and Alderman John Morrow had left the government office with the assurance of consent for the site.

Major Judson announced at the same time that the new proposed lightkeeper's residence will be built in September, this year, it is probable, at a cost of $8,000, which will make it an ornament to the lake front and the city and a very desirable residence.

The site chosen for the fish hatchery by the city is 90 by 100 feet in dimensions and fronts on Madison street just east of the water works.

The city will do its share toward cleaning up and parking the lake front, the government will park the district about the new lightkeeper's house and from the end of the new south pier at the Gourly dock, and the state will park the land about the fish hatchery, so the Waukegan lake front is to be substantially improved and made beautiful.

Major Judson will write to the secretary of war recommending that the fish hatchery site be leased to the city for $1 a year as is the harbor dock site, and this means that the secretary of war will grant that the lease be issued, so the fish hatchery is assured and Waukegan gains an industry and a show place at one and the same time. The fish hatchery building will be simple but tastily and costly.

EASTERN STAR ENTERTAINED BRISTOL GUESTS

On Tuesday evening the local order of the Eastern Star entertained the members of Bristol chapter.

About twenty responded to the invitation and were present at the ceremonies at which three candidates, Mrs. W. H. Osmond, Miss Helen Johnson and Miss Bertha James were received into the order.

After the ceremonies of initiation all were conducted to the basement of the M. E. church where covers were laid and a dainty luncheon was served.

About midnight the guests departed voting Antioch chapter to be proficient in its work and generous in their entertaining.

RETURN TO WEARING OF WIGS.

Women Go Back to Fashion of Many Years Ago.

Since the magnificent court days of France there has never been a time when wigs were so generally worn by women as at present. They are not, however, white, abundant wigs, such as were favored by Marie Antoinette and the beautiful duchess of Devonshire; rather they are those which match the natural, youthful color of the hair and are arranged in the height of prevailing fashion. They are wigs, besides, which subtly endeavor to make the world believe they are not wigs at all, but superb tresses of vigorous growth.

The becomingness of a wig is unquestioned. It appears larger than the arrangement of natural hair and forms when arranged in soft curves an attractive frame for the face. To small, delicate faces wigs are especially becoming. By wearing them, moreover, hateful hair dyes can be abolished, as they are now manufactured in every known color of hair. Indeed, the making of wigs has so improved of late that many of the old inconveniences in connection with them have passed away.

Clay, Youngest Senator.

It has been stated that Mr. Clay went to the senate when he was 29 years, 8 months and 14 days old—which is interesting in view of the fact that the constitution of the United States, Art. 1, Sec. 3, says: "No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained the age of 30 years." Clay was born April 12, 1777. In 1806 he was appointed to the senate to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Gen. John Adair of Kentucky. A hunt through a dozen reference books discloses no hint of irregularity more enlightening than the clause in the old Johnson encyclopedia: "Late in 1806, when scarcely eligible," and another in the National Encyclopedia of Biography, "though constitutionally he was under age."

SCHEME TO GET MONEY

Kenosha Foreigner Robbed of Years Savings in Trying to Double His Money

WAS FLEECED OF $2,400

Was Led to Suppose That He Could Have Each Bill Duplicated by Placing It Between Paper

According to police circles a great swindle was recently unearthed in Kenosha in which a Waukegan man was concerned. The scheme was worked out so cleverly it is said that the victim was fleeced of $2,400 and the strange part of the matter is that he may have considerable difficulty in proving that the money was taken from him.

The name of the victim is not given, but it seems that he was a foreigner who had lived in this country for some time. The $2,400 was the money that he had managed to save during the time that he has been in this country.

One day, a short time ago, he became acquainted with two of his countrymen and after a while they told him of a scheme by which he could double any money that he might chance to have. They said that the scheme was one that they had invented and that as long as the government did not discover it that it would be all right.

The plan as explained to the victim was to place a piece of paper money between two sheets of blotting paper which were then saturated with water and the paper placed between presses and put aside.

In a few days the victim was invited to witness the supposed opening of the press, and there, sure enough, were two bills of the same denomination as the one that had been placed there. A blank piece of paper that had been inserted with the bill had evidently turned into another bill.

The victim was thoroughly convinced, and going to the bank he drew out his $2,400 and had the bills placed between the blotters in the expectation that he would get his money doubled, merely paying the men who did the work a commission.

When the time came for him to go to the place where the money had been placed, it was not there and the men had skipped. The police were notified and the men were captured near Chicago. Now the trouble will be to prove that it was they that removed the money from the press.

CUT IN WAGES OF RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

A general cut in wages of all section men and all unskilled laborers has been ordered by the railroads extending west from Chicago. Several thousand men are affected. This is the first wage reduction made by the western roads, and is considered in some quarters as the first step in a general wage cut which is declared to be increased by an advance in freight rates. The reduction in the case of most section men is from $1.35 per day of 10 hours to $1.25. Some extra gangs have been paid $1.45, and they have been reduced to $1.35. Most of the laborers affected are foreigners, but there are a large number of men who have been unable to get other work who are working in the section gangs.

USEFUL PURPOSE IN MIMICRY.

Reflection of Professor Gives New Food for Thought.

"If we did not cough in church the human race would not exist." And the professor, twiddling a piece of chalk in his hand, regarded the sophomores with a quizzical smile.

"What I mean," he continued, "is that the cause of coughing is the cause of our survival. That cause is mimicry. Mimicry is a better life preserver than feigning or strength. For by mimicry we manage not to attract attention, and in prehistoric times they who attracted attention were hunted down by the tribe and roasted for dinner or hunted down by the saber-tooth tiger and taken raw."

"Since those dark days mimicry has been instinctive with us. Mimicry is what causes us to follow the fashions. It causes us when in England to say 'cawn't' and 'lawt'. If your friend yawns, you yawn—that's mimicry. If he laughs, you laugh—mimicry again. If he snuffles, you snuffle—mimicry. And if he coughs in church, straightway you and all the rest of the congregation cough, the reason being the same one which saved our forefathers from extermination."

M. W. A. CONVENE AT PEORIA

Delegation From Waukegan Left for Peoria Saturday

BISHOP FALLOWS SPEAKS

Head Consul Northcott to be Toastmaster at Banquet Which is a Sign of Reconciliation

The Waukegan delegates and the Lake Camp Forester drill team, under command of Captain Will S. Reed, left Waukegan for the Peoria convention of Woodman Saturday night on the 8:20 train.

Peoria is alive with delegates and visitors to the fifteenth biennial head camp of the Modern Woodman of America, which opens tomorrow. Head Consul Talbot and Head Clerk Hawes have been indorsed for re-election.

Salt Lake City, Dallas, Omaha and Buffalo are candidates for the head camp of 1911 and have large delegations here. The meetings are to be held at the Coliseum and the state caucuses, thirty-nine in number, in various assembly halls tomorrow night. At the Illinois delegation caucus former Head Consul Northcott will be toastmaster, which indicates that factional differences have been harmonized.

At the meeting of the local camp Clerk's Association today F. H. Norling of Kansas City was re-elected president and W. T. Copeland of Lima, Ohio secretary.

Bishop Fallows of Chicago spoke to a mass meeting of men this evening on "Christian Manliness," and cited Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt as types of Christian manly men, and referred to William Howard Taft as a striking example of this type. Taft, he said, would be nominated and elected. The statement was followed by cheering and one delegate left the hall.

At Camp Murphy, where the Order of Foresters is in camp, a flag raising and sword presentation to Gen. Mitchell of Ionia, Mich., were the features. It is expected 9,000 Foresters will camp here the entire week. On Thursday, the day of the big parade, it is expected Peoria will entertain 75,000 Woodman and Foresters.

FREELOVE COLONY BARS SERCOMBE

Because Parker H. Sercombe insists upon appearing in public minus his trousers the official ban has been placed on him by the Spirit Fruit Home colony, near Ingleside.

He is not welcome at the place in his pink pajamas. The breach of etiquette committed by him at the Walt Whitman banquet at the Washington restaurant one month ago, when he appeared in pajamas, is the act responsible for his ostracism by the colonists.

Action was taken against Sercombe at the first anniversary of the dedication of the Spirit Fruit home. The first intimation that he had that he was not wanted was when he did not receive an invitation to participate in the exercises. When it was whispered that he might attend he was not told that he would be welcome. This select gathering, and then the "kibosh" for all time was put on the lover of next-to-nature garb.

"We don't want him here," said Jacob Beilhart. While he may believe in free expression and the absolute foolishness of marriage by law, we cannot stand for a man who is likely at any time to parade in bathing trunks, pajamas, or garments having even less cloth."

Further Beilhart said Sercombe had obtained enough advertising capital at his expense already. He accused the follower of Walt Whitman of forcing himself upon the colony last year when he was not wanted.

Other than the ripple of discontent which the mention of Mr. Sercombe's name caused, the anniversary ceremony and its attendant pleasures was a grand success. Several hundred people attended.

Natural Fly Paper.

The pinguicula is a plant which is a natural fly paper. Its leaves are constantly covered with a sticky substance that traps all insects alighting thereon.

The Great Chicago Fire.

The Chicago fire occurred October 8 and 9, 1871. About 125,000 people were rendered homeless and over 20,000 buildings were destroyed. The loss was estimated at $200,000,000, and the area of the burned district was about 1,800 acres.

G. A. R. DENIED REDUCTION First Time They Have Ever Been Refused Excursion Rates for Encampment

For the first time in the history of the organization there will be no reduced fares made for the Grand Army encampment by the western roads and for the first time in ten years more than 1 cent a mile will be charged. For the last decade railroads all over the country have made an exception of the grand Army encampment in making rates, the charge for about ten years having been 1 cent per mile in each direction, a figure not named for any other sort of meeting.

This year sentiment is to be laid aside and the old soldiers and the others attending their encampment at Toledo must pay 2 cents per mile in the territory west of Chicago and a rate of one and one-half fares for the round trip in the district east of here. The eastern lines are not charged with discrimination in this matter, as they are making nothing below the one and one-half fares for any meeting, but west of Chicago reductions have been made for the political conventions and other meeting where large attendance is anticipated.

MIDNIGHT FIRE OUSTS FAMILIES

Residents of the eight flats owned by Tobias Jensen at 211 Market street were thrown into a panic Sunday morning at 2 o'clock when the alarm of fire was heard to come from the flat occupied by a colored family in Waukegan.

In an instant occupants of the four flats nearest the fire rushed pellmell from the house, and when the department arrived on the scene, there was the greatest possible confusion. Men and women rushed about half-dressed occupants of the flats made excitement such as the firemen have not seen at a fire in a long time.

The fire had a mysterious origin. The chief was told that the man who occupied the room where the fire started had left the place about 10 o'clock and the only possible conclusion is that he left a cigar stump or was careless in some manner. The blaze was restricted to the flat where it started and the remainder of the building escaped with little or no damage. The total damage was not over $100, owing to the find work of the firemen.

LOCAL LODGES OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

It has for a long time been the custom of the Rebekah's and Odd Fellows to annually observe one day each summer as decoration day, for the purpose of paying tribute to the memory of their departed brothers and sisters.

This year, Sunday, June 14 was set aside for that purpose and in accordance with the usual custom the local lodges made preparations for fittingly observing the day.

In the afternoon about fifty members of the two orders met at their hall and at about half past two o'clock marched in a body to the cemetery where with appropriate ceremonies they decorated the graves of their dead.

ODD FELLOW LODGE IS GROWING

Figures from the office of the grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in the state of Illinois show that the past year has been the most successful of any in the history of the order in point of increase in membership. During the twelve months just past 4,212 new members were added to the lodges in Illinois, 46 more than in the previous twelve months. The figures were given by Owen Scott of Decatur, grand master of the order in Illinois, at the meeting held at Joliet, Thursday. Mr. Scott spoke enthusiastically of the outlook for the future, and expressed his opinion that the order would have still a larger growth in the coming year.

Now for Pure Air.

Ventilate, ventilate, ventilate—indoors and out—indoors by living in the open as much as possible.

During these warm sunny days the people generally should freely ventilate their living and working quarters. Owners or caretakers of halls, churches, schools or other places of public assemblages are especially advised to do so. Those who may have been timid about draughts and cold during the winter months should certainly avail themselves of this favorable opportunity to purify their premises and thus safeguard health.

SUICIDE NEAR TREVOR

Thomas O'Keefe of Chicago, Commits Deed While Despondent

WAS A MAN OF 35 YEARS

Came to Trevor Last Week to Regain Health and Evidently Despairing Committed the Rash Act

At about eight o'clock Tuesday morning the family of Gus Voltz, who reside north of town, were astounded by the discovery that Thomas O'Keefe an inmate of their home, had for reasons unknown, taken his own life, at an earlier hour of the morning.

About a week ago Mr. O'Keefe, of Chicago, came to the Voltz home to spend a short vacation and to recuperate after a long and trying round of business cares.

He had been in the employ of Ryan & Company, wholesale liquor dealers for the past ten years, and during that time had proved himself to be an honest, upright young man, beyond the tongue of reproach. He was a man about thirty-five years of age and appeared to be of a buoyant disposition and to all appearances was one least expected to contemplate such an act. He made many friends among his fellow employees and had gained the respect of his employers.

Mr. O'Keefe came to the Voltz home in a nervous condition caused by close confinement to his work and it is probable that in a fit of despondency his over wrought brain conceived the idea of ending his own life.

The body was discovered by a man hired on the Voltz farm, at about eight o'clock hanging near the barn. When found, life was extinct and apparently had been for some time.

The Coroner of Kenosha County was notified at once, and upon his arrival impounded a jury who returned the verdict that the deceased came to his death by his own hand, for reasons unknown to the jury.

The Ryan liquor company were immediately notified by telegram of the sad occurrence. Two representatives of the firm accompanied by an undertaker from Chicago arrived on the 3:15 train in the afternoon. They at once took charge of the body and prepared it for shipment, removing it to Chicago on the evening train.

As far as is known O'Keefe had no relatives.

SERVICES NO LONGER NEEDED.

Patient of Young Physician Had Found Relief.

"Ah, nurse," said the slipshod young doctor, to the old grim-appearing nurse, at the patient's door, "has the patient's fever dropped since I was here yesterday?"

"Yes; decidedly."

"H'm! that's encouraging! How's the pain?"

"She hasn't any."

"Come! that's great! And the cough?"

"She doesn't cough at all now."

"Well, you and I are to be congratulated, nurse! My medicine has taken effect, then?"

"No doubt, sir."

"Well," concluded the young doctor, inwardly calling down malediction on the heads of all grim old nurses such as she, "there's hardly any need of my calling here again, then?"

"None whatever. The patient's dead!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

WOMEN IN UNIVERSITY HALLS.

Now Take Positions by Right Instead of by Favor.

The ladies have done well at Glasgow, at the last graduation ceremony, 50 women and 59 men being admitted to the degree of M. A. Twenty years ago women in the classroom were a rare avia, and we have some recollection of their first appearance at Edinburgh late in the 'eighties. There were eight young ladies in Prof. Tait's class of natural philosophy. He was explaining the octahedron, parenthetically remarking that it had eight plain faces. One of the sporting contingent in the back row interjected the remark, "Front bench," the ungallant reference being to the eight stalwart young ladies—the pioneers of the woman graduate—who occupied seats in the front row.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the English, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves, Edith Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant. The four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes and Edith are married. Soon after their wedding Barnes' bride disappears. Barnes discovers she has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica. The groom secures a fishing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his wife, when he hears a scream from the villa and rushes back to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is also missing. Barnes is compelled to depart for Corsica without delay, and so he leaves the search for Marina to her husband while he goes to hunt for Edith. Just before Barnes' boat lands on Corsica's shore Marina is discovered hiding in a corner of the vessel. She explains her action by saying she has come to help Barnes rescue his wife from the Corsicans. Barnes and Marina have unusual adventures in their search for Edith. They enter a hermitage and there to their amazement they discover Edith. Barnes is surprised in the hermitage by Rochini and Romano, the two detested bandits, who have been searching for him to murder him for his money. The bandits attempt to take away Marina. Barnes dashes out the door. The bandits start to pursue, but as they reach the door both are laid low by Barnes' revolver. The girl then arrives to find Marina and learns that she has been lured away by the telegram which had been sent by another woman. Barnes and Edith take different roads in their search. Edith is trapped in a tower where she is made prisoner, endeavoring to escape he opens a trap door where he finds Emory, the detective, who had been imprisoned there previously. In another secret chamber, Tomasso is found imprisoned. Edith is climbing down a wall sees upon the portico of a farm house Marina and Count Danella sitting and talking together. Barnes arrives and finds the bridge swung preventing his crossing over. The voice of Marina crying for mercy. He examines his revolver.

Hastily he selects a spot with a good line of sight and stands waiting—waiting for the chance; for intervening vines trouble him, and the foliage of a great orange tree, standing alone in the garden and midway between the house and the turret, jumbles the light, which is only the faint sheen of the rising moon.

Slightly before this, Marina had been sitting on the long veranda of the Corsican farmhouse, the lighted lamps placing some tinges of ruby in her dark brown hair and giving color to the light costume that enhances her loveliness.

Quietly entering from the house, Cipriano Danella, costumed in the old time, romantic Corsican garb, gazes upon the exquisite girl outlined by the light costume.

The eagerness of his glance draws Mrs. Anstruther's eyes to him. She looks up and says: "Ah, Count Cipriano, it was very noble of you, who I had feared would hate me, to rescue me from the 'Lucchese.' At your advice, I have rested here, but to-morrow, notwithstanding the romantic serenade you have provided for me, I must go on to Bastia."

"Oh, yes, to Bastia," murmurs the count softly, and stepping nearer, says suavely, though there is a weird suggestion in his voice that somewhat disquiets the lady: "We are alone here in my old farmhouse, only old Martha, the cook, who, far away, will snore till dawn, and my nephew, Count Enrico."

"I haven't seen him," remarks the girl uneasily.

"Parbleu, you did once, the gentleman with the scar upon his face, the one who delivered the letter that caused your nerves to jump in the Marseilles railroad station. Even now his name seems to have an ill effect upon you," for Marina has started up, and the fluttering of her light skirts shows her limbs are trembling.

"Mia Madre, was he the man?" she shudders. "And was it you who penned it?" Then some divination entering her mind, she implores pathetically: "Holy Virgin, no harm has come to Edith? Have I not deserted my dear husband? It was the promise of that awful letter that no evil should come to Edith if I left his arms."

"Ah, but you intended to return to them, bella mia," smiles the gentleman.

The young wife scarcely heeds the insinuation of the subtle Italian term, but stammers confusedly: "Why do you think that?"

"Ma foi, you were journeying to Bastia to meet your husband, lured there by a telegram I directed to be sent to you from that place," whispers the count significantly.

"The telegram was false? Edith is not in Corsica? Edith is safe? Madre di Dio, I thank thee!" Marina's voice rings with a hope that produces a supreme joy in Cipriano's occult mind.

This lady upon whom he has set his fervid heart, is courage personified as regards her own safety, but the great love she bears this Englishman makes her timid for him. "Tis Danella's plan to use for its own destruction this generous and mighty love."

"That's what I wish to discuss with you," he observes quietly, gazing upon a face to which each wave of passion adds such loveliness that he cannot restrain the monstrous proposition on his tongue. It breaks forth. "My poor brother loved you, but you gave him death," he whispers passionately. "I love you, but, per Baccho, you will not give me death—but love!"

"Love? Impossible?" Marina starts from him wildly; then scorn coming to her eyes and voice, remarks haughtily: "You are speaking to a wedded wife, Monsieur."

"Not legally wedded, I have hopes. My brother, poor Musso, perchance by his lips in private gave his consent to your nuptials, but of that I have no proof. There is no written document. You are still a child—but 20—according to the French law, you cannot wed without the consent of your guardian for several years. Anstruther, in his careless English way, thought not of it; you were too eager for his wooing to note the omission. By my poor brother's death, his authority as your guardian passes to me."

"Pish! I was wedded in Musso's very presence," answers the girl, proudly; then cries: "I am Edith Gerard Anstruther's wife, by the church and by my love."

"Tis a pity; you compel me to make you his widow."

"Edith's widow?" At that awful word, Marina shudders and sinks over- come into a chair.

"Listen to me!" Cipriano's voice is deep with menace, yet soft with passion. "On the further cliff down the coast are quarries of dazzling-hued green Orezza marble that is taken from this island to deck palaces."

"Orezza marble, what has that to do with Edith's life?" half scoffs the girl.

"But it may have something to do with his death," observes Danella. "For the blasting of the rock is used much dynamite. I have robbed the quarries and have mined the base of yonder turret with the explosive. In it are three men: one, old Tomasso, whose knife entered my brother's heart; the other, an American detective who has placed his Yankee nose into this vendetta, unfortunately for himself. Emory is in that turret. You will give something for these men's lives?"

"For Emory and dear old Tomasso? Certainly—anything in reason." The lovely eyes are filled with a strange alarm.

"Ah, but it must not be in reason—it must be in a passion as exalted as my own—for you. When I direct my nephew, who is bound to me not only by ties of blood, but of gratitude, and who is inflamed against you all by his oath of vendetta for the murdered Musso, he will light the fuse leading to the mine, and puff!—that tower, with every man who's in it, goes into the air!"

"Murderer!" shudders Marina, who has listened astounded.

"Ah, you have sympathy for these poor fellows! That is well; I shall love you more for your tender heart," continues Cipriano softly.

"But the law!" half screams the lady.

"Pah—in Corsica—in a vendetta. Besides, the blown-up tower will be thought but another outrage of the rioting 'Lucchese.' Oh, this is no worse than dagger thrusts or blows from bullets which always come in a blood feud. And in that mined turret, Cipriano's voice is low but terrible, 'there is another man, who following the cyclamen flowers you dropped in the road and a few more we added to lead him into that fatal tower—'

"Edith!" Marina's limbs hardly uphold her.

"The man you foolishly call husband." The finger of the suave wooer points to the turret's upper floor.

Then the game is on!

Her eyes following his gesture, a shuddering cry, low, broken, despairing yet full of tenderest love, issues from the girl's lips that have now become white as death itself. "Edith, my husband—my flowers brought you to this—following for love of me—"

"He's caught like a rat in my trap!" smiles the count.

"Not without warning, wretch!"

She would spring from the veranda and run over to the base of the tower and call up to the man whose face she sees outlined against the grillage of the upper window, through whose iron bars he is struggling to force his way.

But Cipriano's strong hand clutches her white arm; he pulls her back into the seat and commands: "Not until you've heard my words, which may save his life!"

"His life? Tell me!"

"I have explained you are not legally this man's spouse," Cipriano's voice is trembling with desire. "Become mine! I had purposed in Nice to give you a very cruel death for what you had to do with my brother's killing, but when I saw your beauties and knew that the little child I had once seen had grown into a Venus, but no marble one, to myself I said: 'Corpo di Baccho, 'tis in the blood of the Danellas to love this woman. I am enamored of her as wildly as poor dead Musso. 'Tis a medieval idea; instead of slaying her, I'll have revenge in winning her—against herself, the wife—also against the husband.'

"Not against Edith! You have no cause of hate against him."

"Vendettas are caused by love as well as hate! He dares to call you wife. Each moment my eye rests upon you increases thy sweetness to me. You are Corsican—so am I—no foreigner should stand between us."

"Holy Virgin, you expect me to love you?" stammers the girl.

To this he answers with Machiavel- lian subtlety: "Of course not now, but that may come in time. At present you love Edith! Because of this devoted love—to save this gentleman you adore—you give yourself to me."

At his hideous mathematics the girl utters a cry of horror.

"If you would save the life of this Englishman whom I should dispatch by my oath of the vendetta, at once your kisses."

"Would Edith wish to live, his wife untrue? Monster!" Marina's face blazes with shame.

"Oh, no, not monster; simply a man who has gone crazy for thee. Understand, if you are mine, the man in that tower lives. To-night on the vessel that is anchored here, I'll bear you away to some far distant isle of Greece."

"My husband would follow us forever!"

"Not if he knew you were faithless! 'Tis not their English way. A woman who is dishonored is no more to them than a tainted orange."

"Dishonored in his eyes? Never!" cries the girl. "I'd sooner you killed him—sooner you killed me, much! I'm in your power; I'm alone here, helpless in your hands. Kill me. Let my darling go."

As Danella has clutched her, the old neck fastenings of the ancient gown have given way; she plucks its laces further apart over her dazzling bosom and begs: "Bury your stiletto here, but spare my husband."

Her pose only makes her the more alluring to his devouring eyes.

"What, kill the being I adore!" shudders Cipriano. "I have no stiletto and I have taken care no knife is near your desperate hands, my lady. Besides, I'll never let you go. If you will not leave your husband as his wife, leave him as his widow."

"Here, Enrico!" he calls.

The young cavalier with the scar above his eyebrow comes onto the veranda and says: "My uncle, I honor thee, you have decided to give this woman death?"

BUILDING OF A WITICISM.

Point of Joke the Same Though Under Changed Conditions.

The Bohemian had an article entitled, "How a Joke is Made." In it Marshall P. Wilder, the well known humorist, cites this story as an illustration of one method. "Here is a story with a joke in it about Labouchere, the genial editor of London Truth. When he was standing for the borough of Northampton for the English parliament a little girl came up to her father and said: 'Papa, who made Mr. Labouchere?' 'Why, Providence, my dear,' answered the somewhat astonished parent. 'And what for, papa?' inquires the child. Now that isn't a bad joke. It was natural, anyway. But listen to one of mine, which really has the same point, though it is brought out in a different way. A child and her mother are on the cars. Opposite them sits a young man dressed in the height of fashion. Says the child: 'Mamma, what is that?' and, as she asks the question, she points to the young man opposite. 'Hush, my dear,' answers the mother. 'But, mother, I want to know.' To quiet the child the mother whispers in her ear: 'He is what we call a dude, dear.' The child persists as usual in gaining some more information. 'And who made him, mamma?' 'Why, Providence, dear, of course,' replies the mother sotto voce, whereat the child exclaims: 'Oh, mother, doesn't Providence like to have fun sometimes? You see, the stories are really alike. At all events, the point is the same.'

Trade With Colonies.

INVALID'S SAD PLIGHT.

After Inflammatory Rheumatism, Hair Came Out, Skin Peeled, and Bed Sores Developed—Only Cuticura Proved Successful.

"About four years ago I had a very severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. My skin peeled, and the high fever played havoc with my hair, which came out in bunches. I also had three large bed sores on my back. I did not gain very rapidly, and my appetite was very poor. I tried many 'sure cures' but they were of little help, and until I tried Cuticura Resolvent I had had no real relief. Then my complexion cleared and soon I felt better. The bed sores went very soon after a few applications of Cuticura Ointment, and when I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for my hair it began to regain its former glossy appearance. Mrs. Lavina J. Henderson, 138 Broad St., Stamford, Conn., March 6 and 12, 1907."

An All-Round Book.

The book agent had spent a discouraging morning, and when he had an opportunity to scan the face of Eli Hobbs at close range, he felt that there was small chance of making a sale. However, he had more than one method of suggestion.

"Sitting out here on the piazza after- noons with your wife, this would be the very book to read aloud," he said, ingratiatingly, to Mr. Hobbs, taking the other rocking chair and opening the large red-covered volume.

"I don't read and I haven't any wife," replied Mr. Hobbs, dryly.

"Dear me!" said the book agent. "Well, if your wife is dead, perhaps there are children. Now, children find this book—"

"There are no children," interrupted Mr. Hobbs. "There's nobody but myself and my cat."

"Well," said the book agent, "don't you ever want a good heavy book to throw at her, just to ease your feel- ings?"—Youth's Companion.

"Internal Revenue" Collections.

The term "internal revenue" has been restricted in its meaning to such revenues only as are collected under the internal revenue bureau con- nected with the treasury department, and does not include all revenues that are, properly speaking, from internal sources, that is, from sources other than duties levied at the frontiers upon foreign commodities. Thus, moneys arising from the sale of public lands, from patent fees, or the revenues of the postal service, are not generally known as "internal revenues."

Water, Water, Everywhere.

During the flood of 1903 an old darky living in the East bottoms awoke one morning to find his premises four feet under water. Later he was found by a party of rescuers walking about the yard prodding into the ground with a fish- ing pole. He was asked his purpose.

"Good gracious, men," said he, "what do you think Ah am a-doin'? Ah am tryin' to find mah dog-gone well so Ah can git mahself a pail of watah."

"TWO TOPERS."

A Teacher's Experience.

"My friends call me 'The Postum Preacher,'" writes a Minn. school teacher, "because I preach the gospel of Postum everywhere I go, and have been the means of liberating many 'coffee-pot slaves.'"

"I don't care what they call me so long as I can help others to see what they lose by sticking to coffee, and can show them the way to steady nerves, clear brain and general good health by using Postum."

"While a school girl I drank coffee and had fits of trembling and went through a siege of nervous prostration, which took me three years to rally from."

"Mother coaxed me to use Postum, but I thought coffee would give me strength. So things went, and when I married I found my husband and I were both coffee toppers, and I can sympathize with a drunkard who tries to leave off his cups."

"At last in sheer desperation I bought a package of Postum, followed directions about boiling it, served it with good cream, and asked my hus- band how he liked the coffee."

"We each drank three cups apiece, and what a satisfied feeling it left. Our conversion has lasted several years and will continue as long as we live, for it has made us new—nerves are steady, appetites good, sleep sound and refreshing."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

HER DESTINATION IN DOUBT.

Little Girl's Remark Not Complimen- tary to Grandma.

Ethel is of the mature age of five. Recently her grandmother concluded that it devolved on her to instruct the child in religious matters.

"You must be a good girl, Ethel," she said. "Then you will go to heaven when you die."

Ethel seemed scarcely pleased with this reward for exceptional conduct. "Don't you want to go to heaven?" asked grandma, with a look of reproach.

"Oh, I don't know," temporized Ethel. "I guess not."

"Why not?" demanded grandma, severely.

"Because maybe I couldn't get out," answered Ethel.

"You wouldn't want to get out," re- plied grandma.

"Oh, yes, I should," returned Ethel, with conviction.

"No," argued grandma, "you would not. Why should you want to get out of heaven?"

"Why," answered Ethel, "I guess I'd want to go and see you once in a while, wouldn't I?"—Woman's Home Companion.

The Missing Link.

What was said to be the "missing link between man and ape" was found by Dr. Dubois in 1895 on the banks of the Bengawan river, in central Java. These fossil remains consisted of a skull, a thigh bone and two molar teeth, from which the scientists "con- structed" an animal, not human, yet nearer to man than the ape. The "link" was named "Pithecanthropus Erectus."—New York American.

DENTIST MAKES A COMPLAINT.

Too Much "Make-up" on Women Who Visit His Office.

The dentist's sleeve was smeared with a pale dust. He beat it with his palm, and a perfumed cloud arose.

"Make-up," he said, laughing. "The day's usual harvest of make-up. Why, the deuce, to front the fierce white light of a dental chair, will women come to me with make-up plastered thick on their pretty faces?"

"They all, or nearly all, do it. Their lips are reddened, their brows pencilled, their cheeks rouged, and in a few cases the tiny network of veins in the temples is outlined in blue."

"Pegging away at their teeth, I mop up all that make-up on my coat sleeve. I smear red over white noses, black over pink cheeks. Phew! Look out! And brushing his cuff again, he leaped back to escape the sweet smelling cloud that filled the air.—Philadelphia Bulletin

SHOWS POWER OF IMAGINATION.

Drug Fiend Satisfied with Comparatively Harmless Powder.

"I am having a queer case," said the trained nurse. "I don't often talk about my cases, as you know, and I would not mention this but that I know you, my dear, will never tell."

"I have a private patient who is a morphine eater, and who has several diseases. The doctor knows that the morphine habit must be broken up, so he is giving the patient quinine powders instead of morphine—put up in capsules, of course—though the patient thinks he is taking morphine. I feel half guilty when I administer the doses, but I know we are doing right to try to break up the morphine habit."

"The queerest part of it is that the patient sleeps nearly all the time, just as if he had taken the morphine. Maybe that would interest some of your Christian Science friends."

Strenuous Spanish King.

Of all the crowned heads of Europe who are sportsmen, and most of them do indulge in recreation in one form or another, there is none more indefatigable or a better all-around enthusiast than King Alfonso, who has been so much in the public eye in the last few weeks through the threatened assassination of the Spanish king on the occasion of his recent visit to Barcelona. This visit he did not postpone, despite the threats against him and the advice of his counsellors advocating a postponement of the same. He showed in that determination to go to Barcelona and carry through the plans the same spirit he has displayed in his sports. He is an ardent motorist, and before his marriage was one of the most reckless speeders in all Spain.

No Getting Away.

Jimson was paying an evening call, and Eva Pluffington, happy in the knowledge that 35 minutes' patient toil had fixed her kiss-curl in the most fetching position, was bringing him round to the style of conversation which might lead to anything from a snatched kiss to wedding-bells and confetti, when rat-a-tat came a knock at the front door.

"Bother," said Eva, peeping round the drawing-room curtains. "It's that horrid little Boreby."

"Say you're out," prompted Jimson. "One of my leap-year resolutions was to tell no stories. Shall I say I'm engaged?"

And Jimson—gulleless, lamb-like Jimson—was hooked.—Stray Stories.

Entering a Demurrer.

"Talk about the superiority of mind over matter!" said the argumentative boarder. "It's just the other way. If you want to be sure not to forget a thing you don't trust it to your memory. You take a pencil and a slip of paper and make a memorandum of it."

Where the Honeymoon Is Long.

Marriage among Moslems in India is followed by other ceremonies. The bride with the bridegroom is taken back to her father's house after four days, then again she comes back to her husband's house after ten days' stay, and then after a stay of 20 days returns to her father's house for at least six months. Thus instead of having a short period of honeymoon they make it last almost a year.

It has been said that olive oil is good for some people to take all the time and for all people to take some of the time. It is a sovereign remedy for stomach trouble. It fills out the hollows and builds up the system and relieves aches and pains and the twinges of rheumatism.

News Notes of Interest Gathered in Cities, Towns and Villages of the State.

ALTON CITIZENS MUST PAY COSTS

Scott Bibb Case Expense Devolves on Fifteen, Says Court.

Alton.—Fifteen citizens of Alton, including Mayor Edward Beall, all of whom were members of the city council ten years ago, must pay the state of Illinois $2,503.53 as the cost of the court contest started by the refusal of the school board, ten years ago, to admit the children of Scott Bibb, a negro, to the public schools. The decision holding the 15 men responsible for the costs was handed down by Chief Justice Hand of the supreme court of Illinois. The school board was appointed by the council, so the members of the council were held responsible for the costs of the case. Bibb won the case recently, but his children are now grown. It was stated the only recourse of the defendants was to get a relief bill passed by the present council for their reimbursement.

No Bath in Seven Years.

Bloomington.—Adam Roth is afraid of water, according to the divorce petition of his wife Anna. She declares, however, that on several occasions he has been known to take it as a chaser for the spirits of cheer, but even then he prefers his drinks "straight." Mrs. Roth's chief complaint is that Adam runs from water when it sparkles in a bath tub or basin. She declares that Adam has not taken a bath since their marriage in 1901.

Team Caught in Quicksand.

Smithboro.—While Jacob Nitzel was plowing in a field close to Shoal creek with three horses hitched abreast, the middle horse suddenly went into a hole and pulled in the other two. WIND RAZES A CAMP

THREE THOUSAND TENTS AT PINE PLAINS BLOWN DOWN.

PAPER MONEY SCATTERED

Gale Sweeps Away the Paymaster's Fund—Mimic Attack on New York City by Ships is Planned.

New York.—Pine Plains, the concentration camp of the federal soldiers and national guardsmen, was torn up from one end to the other of its seven miles of territory Sunday by the most severe wind and rain storm that has visited that section for years.

Three thousand tents were blown down, mess shelters were leveled and more than 100 horses stampeded and escaped from their corrals.

It was the soldiers' first drill of the field maneuvers, which take place this week under Gen. Fred D. Grant, commander of the department of the east, but it was not of the kind anticipated.

Paymaster John S. Malloy was paying off the Twelfth United States Infantry when the storm descended. He had arranged the money in heaps of bills, preparatory to distributing them among the men. Maj. Mallory and his assistants made an attempt to get the money back into the strongboxes, but they were unsuccessful, and in a moment the air was full of currency.

Bills of many denominations were found scattered over a territory of a mile or more, and probably the greater part of the money will be recovered. The troops will be kept busy with day and night maneuvers, solving various problems of defense and attack, outpost duty and other activities of troops in the field at war.

While the regulars, a brigade of Massachusetts militia and a regiment and several troops of a battery of the New York National Guard are struggling with the rules and rigors of mimic war at Pine Plains, ships classed as foreign fleets will endeavor to capture New York city, which will be defended by regulars and New York National Guard regiments of the coast artillery. Under the direction of the regulars the state troops will essay the task of operating the big defense guns in the four forts guarding the harbor approaches.

MOTOR CAR RUNS INTO RIVER.

Four Persons Drowned in Accident at New York.

New York.—Four persons were drowned Monday night when an automobile carrying a pleasure party of six became unmanageable, shot at wild speed down West Fifty-sixth street and bounded from an open pier into the North river. The dead are: Adeline Borden, aged 19 years; Mrs. Rose Coleman, aged 23 years; John Coleman, aged 27 years, and Virginia Knight, aged eight years. John Bauer, the chauffeur, was carried into the river with the machine but managed to free himself and swim to safety. John Nolan, one of the party, jumped from the runaway machine as it neared the river.

HULL AND PROUTY IN A TIE.

Iowa Contest Probably Must Be Settled in the Courts

Yaqui's Refuse Peace Terms.

Nogales, Ariz.—As predicted in a dispatch from Hermosillo last Friday, the large body of Yaqui Indians assembled there for several weeks to discuss terms of surrender to the Mexican government refused Monday to give up their arms, as demanded, and negotiations for a peaceful settlement are broken off, at least temporarily. Because of the censorship established over news from Mexico on these negotiations, no details following the refusal to surrender have been received here.

HOT ONIONS FOR PNEUMONIA.

Dread Disease Robbed of Its Terrors by Simple Remedy.

Owing to the prevalence of pneumonia and the great mortality which attends its ravages during the winter and spring, several boards of health in northern New Jersey have been taking measures to protect the citizens of their towns from the disease. The health board of Washington, N. J., has published a remedy which is said to be a sure cure for pneumonia, and other health boards are looking into the matter with a view of having the same thing published for the good of the general public. This is the publication as it has appeared in the papers of Washington:

"Take six or ten onions, according to size, and chop fine, put in a large spider over a hot fire, then add the same quantity of rye meal and vinegar enough to form a thick paste. In the meanwhile stir it thoroughly, letting it simmer five or ten minutes. Then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs and apply to chest as hot as patient can bear. In about ten minutes apply another, and thus continue by reheating the poultices, and in a few hours the patient will be out of danger. This simple remedy has never failed to cure this too often fatal malady. Usually three or four applications will be sufficient, but continue always until the perspiration starts freely from the chest. This remedy was formulated many years ago by one of the best physicians New England has ever known, who never lost a patient by the disease, and won his renown by simple remedies."

Milder Definition.

At Emerson's dinner table one day there was mention of a woman well known as a lion hunter; and, in speaking of her, Mrs. Emerson used the word "snob." Mr. Emerson objected, the word was too harsh; he didn't like that ugly class of words beginning with "sn." His wife inquired how he would characterize the lady. "I should say,"—very slowly—"she is a person having great sympathy with success."

An Important Line.

"She is a most accomplished woman."

"Is she?"

"Why, have you heard her sing?"

"Yes."

"And seen her paintings?"

"Yes."

"Then how can you ask?"

"I have never tasted her pies."

Cough Caution
Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupifying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says. Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture. Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Countless fires have been set by the careless throwing away of lighted cigar and cigarette ends; but the most curious occurred in a London apartment, which chanced to be so situated that twice the haphazard toss of cigarette stubs from a passing omnibus top carried them through an open window, and the place was set on fire. —Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

The greatest demand for gold dredgers in the world now comes from Alaska, and a manager of a big New York company that manufactures dredgers has arrived in Tacoma to investigate the situation. He says more dredgers will be shipped to Alaska this summer than are now being operated in the northern camps. Inquiries for dredgers are coming from sections of Alaska never before heard of. The largest orders naturally are coming from districts in which heavy dredging machinery is already being used.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"I am Bishop of Angouleme," said the Frenchman; "Bishop of the department of the Charente," he added, seeing that the Ultramontane eminence, whose strong point was not modern geography, made no sign. At last a bright thought struck him. "I'm Bishop of Cognac," said he. "Ah, Cognac! Cognac! Cognac!" cried all the guests in chorus, "that's something like a bishopric!"
